FORD FOUNDATION GRANTS $4 MILLION FOR "CYCLE OF LIFE" STUDIES

Florence Moreno

The organic "cycle of life" is the basis of this new research grant. Because of widespread use of chemical fertilizers, chemical insecticides and herbicides, we are destroying the potential of the earth and the atmosphere for the constant renewal necessary to support life. At this time of year, the ravishing of nature begins again on a grand scale, with the burning of leaves.

In a booklet accompanying the announcement of the grants, is an explanation of the "cycle of life", or balance of nature, and how man plunders and disrupts it. In a natural forest, life is sustained and nourished by the decay of organic matter into the soil. When we clean the land of forestry, and plant our own gardens and lawns, we deprive the land of organic food, and replace this with chemical fertilizers. These chemicals can stimulate a tremendous crop, but they do other things, too. They create unfavorable conditions for the presence of earthworms and helpful bacteria under the soil. The soil becomes impoverished and all yield therefrom becomes fair game to the onslaught of destructive insects and fungus diseases.

Because of the use of insecticides, we also kill off the many insects which help pollination, and which themselves police the garden against invaders.

Agawam has sprayed malathion for mosquito control three times this past summer, and never before have we seen as many swarming mosquitos as in this last month.

Why don't we let nature do some of the work for us, instead of just destroying all our natural allies, and eventually ourselves? Those falling leaves could become valuable organic fertilizer, if we gave them a chance, and we wouldn't be polluting the air with smoke.

Once Upon a Halloween "First Chair" to Library

Halloween nowadays is an evening of fun for the little ones, of dressing up in costumes, going to parties, and begging goodies door-to-door.

But Halloween once was a time of terror -- and the costumes children wear on Halloween night reflect that far-off time.

The Druids, an order of priests in ancient Gaul and Britain, believed that on Halloween ghosts, spirits, fairies, witches and elves came out to harm people. They thought the cat was sacred, and believed that cats once had been hyman beings but were changed as a punishment for evil deeds.

From these druidic beliefs, come the present-day use of witches, ghosts, and cats in Halloween festivities.

The Druids had an autumn festival called Samhain (pronounced SAH win), or summer's end. It was an occasion for feasting on all the foods which had been grown during the summer, and for this reason the custom of using leaves, pumpkins, and cornstalks as Halloween decorations also comes from the Druids.

The Roman Catholic Church named Nov. 1 as All Saints' Day, and the evening before it was called Halloween, which means hallowed or holy evening. The Christian feast day and the old pagan customs were combined into the Halloween festival.

New P.O. Rates

Postmaster DeForge reminded postal customers that higher parcel post and catalog rates went into effect Sat. (Oct. 19).

The rate increase will average 10.5% and in most cases will mean an additional 10¢ postage per parcel.

The higher rates were approved by the Interstate Commerce Commission in July.

Under the new rates the minimum charge for local parcel delivery will go from 40 to 50¢. The minimum charge for parcels destined outside the local delivery area will be raised from 50¢ to 60¢.

Almost all parcels that are charged up to $1.10 under present rates will go up 10¢. This accounts for more than 80% of all parcel post.

There will be a 15¢ hike on most parcels now charged between $1.10 and $4, and a 20¢ increase on parcels now charged over $4.

Parcel post rates are based on the weight of the package and the distance mailed.

Chimeras come singly and leave accompanied.

A minister's sermon one Sunday concerned the relationship between fact and faith. "That you are sitting before me in this church," he said "is a fact. That I am standing, speaking to you from this pulpit, is a fact. But it is only faith that makes me believe anyone is listening."

Unite for Unicef

Agawam girls, Sandra Sgorbati and Dela Demko prepare UNICEF sign for pick-up and collection station at 1822 Main St., home of Mr. & Mrs. James Sgorbati. Cartons for collections may be obtained by organizations and individuals any day after 5 P.M.

There will be a "Mystery Lane Party" for UNICEF Trick or Treaters Halloween night when they return their cartons to this address, it was announced by Mrs. John Peterson, Town Chairman.

UNICEF, the United Nations Childred Fund, is the agency of the United Nations concerned with the welfare of children and mothers throughout the world. It is currently assisting more than 500 projects in 118 countries and territories, and is financed on a purely voluntary basis.

As more than one UNICEF may call upon you it is suggested that you set aside the amount you wish to contribute, give a portion to each caller, as you do with candy bars, and none will be disappointed.

Your gift of $1 gives 100 children vaccinations against TB, and a gift of one cent gives 6 cups of milk to hungry children. Where else can so many people benefit from so little money!

NINE JR. GIRLS CHOSEN FOR AGAWAM HIGH BAND COLOR GUARD

The Jr. color guard members will serve as alternates for the remainder of this year and take over as the regular Color guard in their Sr. year. Also selected during the early weeks of school were the majorette leaders and featured baton twirlers. Susan Affleck will head the majorette group this year and also be in charge of training the baton group.

The featured baton twirler role will find Nancy DeCosmo joining Donna Farina in the spotlight with each girl being featured at four of the football games.

Barbara George has moved up from the Color Guard to take over the position of band drum major.

Lady bugs eat insects in orchards, melon patches, and in fields of wheat, oats and barley. During the Middle Ages their beneficial work was recognized; they were dedicated to the Virgin Mary and called the "Beetles of Our Lady", according to the Mass. Audubon Society. A gallon of lady bugs (135,000) can control pests on 4 1/2 acres.

Mrs. Bruno Zucco is Chairman of the Gifts for the new addition to the Center Library. She has been successful in receiving gifts and will have all in readiness for the opening day. When she contacts you, give what you can.

Mrs. Benjamin Deliso and Mr. Norman Wood attended the Annual Meeting of the Mass. Library Trustees at Sturbridge and heard Mrs. Weldon Lynch, past president of American Library Trustee, speak to the subject "A Trustee at Work". She said a trustee needed vision, versatility, and vitality.

Mrs. William Keogh was elected Secretary of the Mass. Library Trustees for a second year. Two weeks ago she was elected Secretary of the New England Library Trustee Association.

Green Thumb Tips

Winter rye sown in autumn will act as a cover crop for the vegetable garden, controlling erosion. Start sowing it in the rows as they empty, fertilize the rye and plan to spade or cultivate it underground in early spring.

This is a cheap way to add organic matter to your soil and thus improve crops for years to come.

If seeds of perennials and biennials were sown earlier and you now have sturdy little plants, better transplant the largest to wherever you want them to bloom next year.

The little ones, if spaced far enough apart, can be left where they are for winter, protecting them with a straw covering.

Parsley and spinach may be sown in fall for use in spring. Both are hardy and will produce an extra-early crop.

If you have rabbits in your garden and expect to eat the spinach yourself, better fence the area now.

Nature's Ways

Tree leaves in autumn disclose brilliant colors that have hidden within the leaf all summer.

For the most part, leaves do not "change color" at this season. Rather, the substance called chlorophyll which colors leaves green dies. As a result, the yellows, oranges, reds, and purples that have been masked all summer by chlorophyll green emerge in autumnal glory.

Despite its legendary role, frost does not cause the change in tree leaf color. In fact, a hard frost too early interferes with the chemistry of the leaf and may dampen fall color. The association between the death of tree leaves and frost is a matter of timing, rather than of cause and effect. Tree leaves have completed their summer's work and are dying at about the same time that frost arrives.

The yellows and oranges of autumn leaves come from the carotin that lives in the leaf all summer. Carotin is a chemical best known for coloring carrots. Like other color within the leaf, it is necessary but less important than chlorophyll, which must be exposed to the sun.

The reds, blues, and purples in leaves all come from the same chemical, anthocyanin, which is an ingredient of leaf sap. Whether the color shade is on the red or the blue side depends upon acidity of the tree's sap. The red maple, for instance, is highly acid and thus has remarkably brilliant reds in its leaves.

The trees with bluish or purple leaves have alkaline sap. Anthocyanin reacts with acid or alkaline much as that old indicator litmus paper. In

by Wayne Hanley
Mass. Audubon Society

acid it turns red; in alkaline, blue.

Brown is a prevalent late autumn color which was not mentioned earlier because while the chemicals that make brown have been present all summer, the color strictly speaking was not present through the growing season. Leaves have other colors through the season, but they acquire brown as death nears. Browns may come from two sources. A final color phase of carotin may be brown. The more common browns, however, come from tannin in the leaf. This tannin is the same tree chemical that can tan leather brown or tan. It can have a similar effect upon the leaves of trees with high tannin content.

Since most coniferous trees are "evergreen" and keep their needles all winter, a person may wonder why deciduous or broad-leaved trees bother with shedding leaves each autumn. The autumnal leaf-drop is a price that broad-leaved trees pay for efficiency - or inefficiency, depending upon how one looks at it. The broad leaf offers maximum exposure to sun and enables a tree to create and store a year-round energy supply in the sunny summer months. But, the broad leaf itself works with lavish wastefulness. For one thing, it "exhales" so much water that a sensitive camera can capture a mist shrouding a busy tree in summer. When the ground freezes, free water no longer is available and a deciduous leaf would be unable to function.

People versus wildlife is the conflict in our national parks where the animals and wilderness areas shrink away as visitors crowd in to see and enjoy them, the MASS. AUDUBON SOCIETY says.

He who has seen everything empty itself is close to knowing what everything is filled with.

Sr. Citizens' Card Party

The Senior Citizens of Agawam are holding a Card Party at 8 P.M. on Oct. 29 at the Jr. High School. The cards of your choice will be played and players are asked to bring their own cards.

The money realized will be used to further the craft projects now undertaken at the Center. Also ceramic lessons are to be started soon and the initial expense is quite high. Therefore we would like to realize as much as possible from this card party.

Don't waste those green tomatoes. Either turn them into green tomato pickles, dip them in batter and fry them to eat, or pick them, wrap each in a separate piece of newspaper, and place them on a table in a place that is dark and warm.

They'll gradually ripen, especially if they showed even a tiny bit of red when picked.

If the birds give you a chance to harvest sunflower heads before they have eaten all of the seeds, place the heads on a table in a dry place where there is plenty of ventilation.

In about 2 weeks the heads will have cured and you can remove the seeds from them.

Roast the seeds in the oven and taste them. They're delicious! Perhaps you don't want to give all of your crop to the birds after all? Why not share with them, keeping at least a few of the seeds for yourself?
